

Dean, School of Pharmacy Faculty Position

Concordia University Wisconsin

Concordia University Wisconsin, a Lutheran higher education institution in Mequon, Wisconsin, committed to helping students grow in mind, spirit and body, is currently seeking a qualified and motivated professional to fill the position of founding dean for its new school of pharmacy.

The goal of the new program is to prepare students to serve in rural, urban, and suburban areas; in not-for-profit as well as for-profit sectors within the pharmacy industry.

The dean of this school must meet all ACPE requirements and will be instrumental in developing this new program in time for the 2009-10 school year. The dean must also be dedicated to excellence and should meet the following qualifications:

- Hold an advanced degree in pharmacy, pharmacology, medicinal chemistry, or a related field;
- Have an extensive background in building a pharmacy curriculum and a strong background in pharmacy/medical science education;
- Have extensive experience with pharmacy/medical science education and the development of new pharmacy academic or research programs;
- Have academic leadership experience or evidence of potential leadership;
- Be willing to collaborate to raise money for the pharmacy program and building;
- Have experience in collaborating with internal colleagues and programs and external communities as accrediting agencies and governmental agencies;
- Have the vision to create a pharmacy program that is in alignment with Concordia's Lutheran mission and values

Concordia University Wisconsin, whose campus is on the Lake Michigan shore, is just 20 minutes from downtown Milwaukee. It is an accredited, co-educational, liberal arts school offering undergraduate majors, graduate programs and adult education undergraduate majors.
